and financial crisis. Laura Bush and Michelle Obama talked about raising daughters in the nation's most famous house. Then Obama flew back to Chicago to work on setting up the new administration that will take over on Jan. 20, and his wife went out hunting a new school for the kids, visiting two of the capital city's best-known private schools.

If first impressions matter, the Obamas displayed one similarity to the super-punctual Bushes, pulling up to the White House's South Portico 11 minutes early. The couples traded warm and easy greetings in the crisp autumn sunshine, with the wives exchanging pleasantries about the fall hues each wore — Mrs. Bush in a brown dress and Mrs. Obama in a red one.

While Obama and Bush, in business suits, proceeded waving and smiling down the White House Colonnade for nearly two QFC wants to build about 300 apartments, a parking garage and more retail around University Village supermarket.

The grocery chain and Seattle developer Lorig Associates submitted preliminary plans to the city earlier this month. Most of the new construction would take place at the 60,000-square-foot supermarket.

The application comes a
